The Insanity of Religion

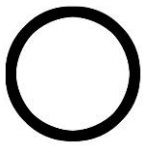
Wayne Douglas Weedon



2026

Copyright © 2026 Wayne Douglas Weedon

ALL RIGHTS RESERVED

Minnegaffe Publishing House

The Insanity of Religion

It is insane to believe a religion is literally true. It is only the wise who regard all religions to be false. Rulers find religion to be useful in controlling any populace which is kept uneducated, ignorant, and stupid enough to believe religion to be true.

Agreeing with Alfred Adler, Albert Einstein stated that a test for our sanity is our ability to handle life's problems. A sane person, when faced with a life problem, will ask themselves, "What can I do about this?" An insane person will ask, "What can someone else or some other being do about this problem?" They will always look for a higher power to solve their problems and run their lives for them, whether that higher power is someone from a different class, a parent, a spouse, a boss, or a god. They always look to someone they believe to be superior to themselves. A sane person seeks solutions, but an insane person will pray for solutions or ask a higher power for solutions.

Christians, Jews, and Moslems have the same god and the same prophets. Why then are these religions so different despite being much the same? Why do these religions have so many sub-religions. How many different types of Christians are there? How many different types of Jews. How many different types of Moslems? Are we able to count them?

Christians pray to the ceiling, Jews pray to the wall, and Moslems pray to the floor. Why the difference?

Why are there so many different versions of the Ten Commandments? What were the original Ten Commandments? Researchers tell us that Moses never existed and that the Ten Commandments were first written by devious men who wished to control the populace. Because these commandments proved to be useful for controlling people, many rulers claimed these Ten Commandments were written to be enforced onto the populace through the ruler's personal religion by their personal god's dictate. This explains why there are so many versions of the Ten Commandments, they have routinely been tweaked to suit different gods and different religions.

Richard Dawkins warns that no version of the Ten Commandments should be placed conspicuously where children may read them. Organisations like the Fraternal Order of Eagles disagree, they believe it is their duty to place these commandments in public places throughout the World.

Several years ago, when some of Canada's blasphemy laws were still in force, Richard Dawkins came to Canada to promote his then new book, The Greatest Show on Earth. Canadian authorities did not arrest Dawkins even though he was contravening Canadian blasphemy laws as he spoke about his new book and his beliefs. Our authorities knew very well, Dawkins would make a laughingstock of them if they ever took him to court. In his books, Dawkins had listed his arguments against the truthfulness of the King James Bible and Canadian authorities knew that any fair and just judge would have no choice but to accept these arguments. Rather than going to court and making complete fools of themselves, Canadian authorities, just before New Years Day, 2018, quietly removed all blasphemy laws from Canadian criminal codes. These laws had outlived their useful purpose.

The Insanity of Religion

Throughout history, the common excuses for going to war have been race and religion. In his books, Dawkins debunks both these reasons. He proves that race is fictional, and all human beings are of the same species, ALL-ONE. Dawkins also gives plenty of evidence and proof that all religions are fictional and false. In fact, the word Bible translated into English literally means a collection of fairy tales. All the people and stories in the Bible were verbally passed down from generation to generation for thousands of years before Moses, Noah, and others were allegedly born. These stories may be compared to modern fiction such as Superman, Wonder Woman, and Harry Potter. A few thousand years from now, will people be stating our current superheroes were real life prophets and gods? The truth is, there are no gods nor any supernatural beings. Nature is supreme and there are natural laws which Man must have knowledge of if Man wants to survive and continue to live on earth as a species. Dawkins agrees with the founding fathers of modern psychology who have stated religion is a form of delusion, a form of mental illness, a form of insanity.

The Ten Commandments are not only hypocritical, but they are also meaningless. The Bible gives other commandments which completely contradict the ambiguous Ten Commandments.

Thou shall not kill. Kill what? Imagine a seven-year-old child reading this. This phrase has no object. Would an impressionable child feel guilty for having stepped on an ant or for swatting a mosquito?

The Bible tells us that God commanded Moses to kill the Midianites. Obviously, God did not include Midianites when he commanded, thou shall not kill. The Bible states, “They warred against the Midianites, as the LORD commanded Moses; and they slew all the males.”

Thou shall not steal is another confusing commandment. Whom shall we not steal from? The Bible tells us that the children of Israel, “took all the women of Midian captives, and their little ones, and took the spoil of all their cattle, and all their flocks, and all their goods. And they burnt all their cities wherein they dwelt, and all their goodly castles, with fire. And they took all the spoil, and all the prey, both of men and of beasts. And they brought the captives, and the prey, and the spoil, unto Moses, and Eleazar the priest.” Was this not stealing? God not only condoned these acts, but He had also commanded that they should be done.

Thou shall not commit adultery. What is adultery? God’s definition of adultery is not in line with the average Canadian’s definition. God not only condones having many wives and concubines, but He also commands Moses, Joshua and their soldiers to rape underage girls. Is this where Jeffrey Epstein was getting his ideas from?

Scholars all over the world have verified that Richard Dawkins, in his books, gives the reader the truth and nothing but the truth. Every one of the statements Dawkins gives is backed up by evidence and proofs. Canadian authorities realised there are no valid arguments against what Dawkins has written or has verbally stated and that is why they never charged Dawkins with any crime when he was obviously contravening Canadian blasphemy laws.

Competition is a form of insanity. Those who are consumed with winning will eventually begin looking for ways to cheat, to find an edge so they can win. They love humiliating and having power over any competitors and they will become nasty and vicious people who care for nothing but their own corrupt gratifications and the sufferings of their components. These people become consumed with power and the enjoyment of watching others suffer. They become much the same as the Marquis de Sade. Lying and cheating become natural behaviour for them.

War is the ultimate competition, and war can be very profitable. Many have made fortunes from war. Alfred Nobel became financially rich from war and, ironically, his legacy, we are told, is being used to promote peace. Is it really? Who has been given the peace prize and for what?

The whistleblower, General Smedley Darlington Butler of the USA Marines, whose revelations prevented the assassination of President Franklin D. Roosevelt, announced that, “War is a racket. It always has been. It is possibly the oldest, easily the most profitable, surely the most vicious. It is the only one international in scope. It is the only one in which the profits are reckoned in dollars and the losses in lives.” He also stated that, war “is conducted for the benefit of the very few, at the expense of the very many.”

Fictional fairy tales have been described as bubble gum for the brain while books written by Richard Dawkins have been defined as good nutrition and proper exercise for the brain. Dawkins invites the reader to rationalise and to think when he discusses every discipline: Zoology, Biology, Mathematics, Geography, Archaeology, History, Palaeontology, Geology, Nuclear Science, Astronomy, Literature, Philosophy, Religion, et cetera.

Dawkins has proven, we cannot rationalise war because of religion nor because of race. Are we going to come up with new excuses to go to war? Do we love war that much? Will our leaders continue to manage to keep the general populace uneducated, ignorant and stupid so they willingly continue to go to war, to fight, to injure and to kill fellow human beings, including innocent children along with men and women civilians who never wanted war, who only wanted to live in peace?